The correlation between the activity of commercial companies and economic development has led the legislator to take care of the legal side, in order to allow for the balance between trade and industry on the one hand, as specified in the constitution, and on the other hand, the interference with legal texts to establish a protection of commercial companies in particular and of national economy in general. Taking into account the importance of the management process in the relation of the company's purpose, the legislator has provided legal protection in the phase using the rules of criminal law in order to give a criminal character to behavior of the manager who exploits the legal personality as a cover for the deviating from the realization of his interest and giving priority to his personal interest in the exercise of his functions. The technicality of the management process has contributed to the reinforcement of the penal policy with a special text repressing the abuse of corporate assets, and which combines between the principles of criminal law and the specificity of the business mode on the one hand, and the characteristics of the person subject to prosecution (the manager), due to his professional capacity which allows him to erase the features of the act judicial to his interest. This has created new premises on criminal policy, contributing to the debate between the rules of commercial law based on speed and credibility and the rules of general criminal law based on the principles that are respected.	ملخص أطروحة الدكتوراه باللغة الإنجليزية
